Club TRIBHUJA

1,00,000 sft. Kollur's largest clubhouse. Because every hour of the day deserves a space of its own.

The image shows a modern, multi-level lobby. The ceiling is curved and features large, illuminated, metallic, shell-like light fixtures. The walls are a mix of dark grey and light grey, with a large glass wall on the right side. In the foreground, there is a large, curved, metallic reception desk. To the left, there are two large potted plants. In the background, there is a lounge area with orange armchairs and a white sofa. The floor is a light-colored, polished material. The overall atmosphere is modern and sophisticated.

A Lobby

that leaves every door a little open. So the day can wander, and always find its way back.

The flowers have been placed.
The chairs have been pulled in.

The evening begins when you do.

The Home

A home is not a feeling.
It is a door that opens the right way.
A kitchen that knows the hour.
A room that ends the day before you do.

This is the part that matters.

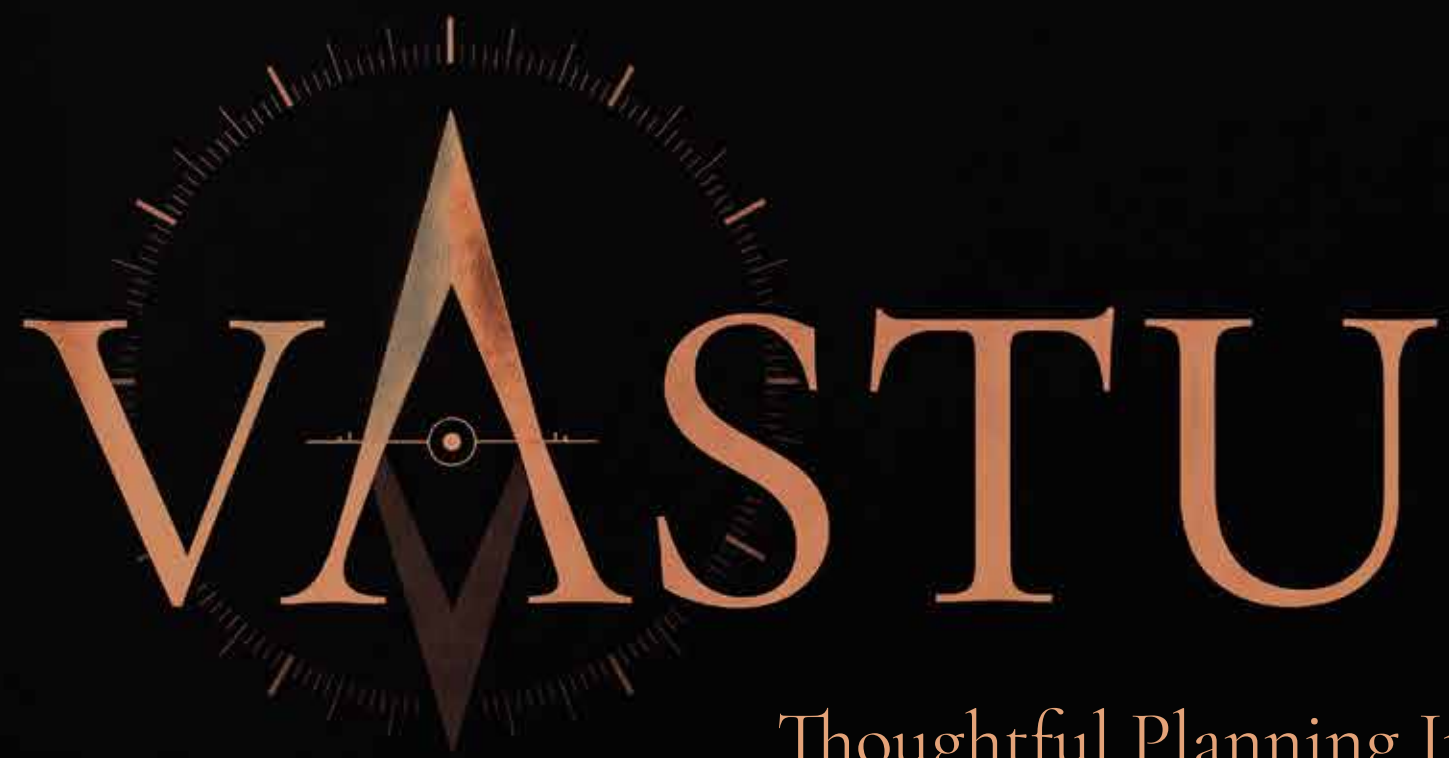

A modern bedroom interior featuring a large window on the left with sheer white curtains. The room has a light-colored wall with four oval-shaped framed artworks arranged in two columns. A green upholstered bed with a matching headboard and footboard is centered, with white bedding and a brown throw blanket. Two wooden nightstands with brass lamps flank the bed. A green armchair and a potted plant are on the right. The floor is light-colored marble. The ceiling has a modern white fan and recessed lighting.

The last room of the day, and the first of the next one.

The Bedroom

A room that fills with the first light of the day. — The Living Room

Thoughtful Planning Integrating Vaastu & Feng Shui Principles.

Two floors were taken out of this building.

Before a single home was sold.

The building was permitted to rise higher. The developer chose to stop shorter.

Two floors per tower were removed from the plan. Not by regulation.
Not by miscalculation. By a deliberate decision taken at the drawing board, when nobody was watching and nobody had asked.

The height those floors would have occupied was returned. To every ceiling in every home. To the HVAC systems that now run with full clearance instead of being forced into compressed cavities. To MEP routing that doesn't fight for space above your head.

The most expensive part of this building is the part that was never built.

The result is a home that breathes. Ducting that stays silent. Rooms where the ceiling sits where an architect placed it, not where a spreadsheet forced it.

Those missing floors had buyers. They had revenue. They had a market value that was quietly, deliberately, absorbed.

*You will never see what was sacrificed.
You are standing inside it.*

Realign Vaastu

The sun never knew how great it was until it hit the side of this building.
